15 University Co-Eds Ill at Dormitory; Poisoned by Food Is Theory Held

Madison—Fifteen co-ed students at the University of Wisconsin, all residents of Barnard hall, girls dormitory, were taken ill Tuesday night, supposedly after eating a plum pudding. Only one of the girls was confined to bed, and all were able to attend classes Wednesday morning. Reports which have spread that 200 girls were affected are "absolutely erroneous in every particular," Dr. Robert Van Valzah, professor of clinical medicine at the university, declared. Analysis of food at the dormitory, university restaurant, has been made by the chemistry department, but there has been nothing to show that any of the food was tainted, according to an announcement from the department. The university cafeteria serves approximately 1,000 students and because of the small number of students who were affected, it is probable that the girls were affected from eating food from other sources.

TROTSKY REGAINS KRONSTADT FORT

Bolshevik Capture Russian Naval Base From Rebels. Stockholm.—Reports that the Russian naval fortress of Kronstadt, center of the revolution against the Soviet government, has been taken by the bolsheviks, appear to be confirmed in dispatches reaching here from Finland. Leon Trotsky, Russian bolshevik minister of war, directed the assault on the fortress, it is said, and hurried upwards of 60,000 men at its defense. Advances would seem to indicate that the fortress was taken by the bolsheviks, and the town of Kronstadt assisted the bolshevik forces when they later had broken into the outer forts of the fortress. Trotsky is declared to have become exhausted by the constant bombardment and were poorly equipped in some important points along the defense lines. Many of the defenders of Kronstadt, together with the commander of the revolutionary troops, are reported to have escaped into Finland across the ice.

Harding Put in Difficult Position in Declaring War With Germany Is Ended

Washington.—Allied repudiation of additional German territory is understood to have presented to President Harding a new problem arising from a relaxation of these changed conditions to previous plans for early declaration by congress of the ending of the state of war between the United States and Germany. Some congressional leaders who support a peace resolution still think that solution be applied as soon as possible. Other leaders close to the president fear it would cause embarrassment to the nation with which withdrawal and the administration has stated this is not now contemplated. Would Encourage Germany. It has been contended by those opposed to early action terminating the state of war with Germany that the troops would lead encouragement to Germany in resisting demands of the allies as to reparations payments. President Harding's position may not be revealed until his message is delivered to the 67th congress April 11.

Millionaires Thrilled by Stillman Divorce

White Plains, N. Y.—The possibility of indefinite postponement of arguments on two motions in the divorce suit of James A. Stillman, millionaire president of the National City bank of New York, against Mrs. Stillman, the former "Edith" Foster of the stage, was ended Friday by John F. Brennan, counsel for Mrs. Stillman. He obtained from Supreme Court Judge Morschhausen an order directing that next Wednesday morning arguments shall be made on the motion of Mrs. Stillman to require Mr. Stillman to show his financial status and on the motion for $10,000 a month alimony and $25,000 counsel fees. New York's "400" set and millionaire colony are getting the biggest thrill of several decades out of the divorce suit. The Stillman family is one of the most prominent socially in America. The 28-month-old son, Guy Stillman, known as one of the big issues in the case. The husband names Ferdinand Beauvais, a half-breed Indian guide at the Stillman camp near Three Rivers, Guy's alleged respondent. A blood test is to be made on the child to determine its parentage. It is claimed that the boy has no physical traits of Indian blood. A cross charge is made. Affidavits in the hand of Mrs. Stillman tend to show that her husband was a frequent visitor to a woman known as Mrs. Florence A. Leeds. The pending litigation comes as a climax to a series of charges which have been made against Eckstein in Milwaukee courts. The Janesville bond case figures in the charges of fraud which have been made against the Milwaukee bond broker and alleged bootlegger. Eckstein is defendant in a state action which charges him with fraudulent practice and is also subject to legal action of the government. Now he is named by Janesville papers for a verdict approximately $25,000 worth of the Blackhawk bonds with his own assets.

SOCIETY DIVORCE CASES SICKENING JUDGE DECLARES

New York.—Asserting that the "public press is filled with sickening accounts of the domestic infidelities of persons claiming high positions in society," District Attorney Lewis of Kings county called Friday gave notice of criminal proceedings against a party to a divorce action who admits a guilty act committed in Kings county. "One or two convictions with penitentiary sentences would give a salutary effect on these people," he said. It really is of no consequence to the public what they do in their private lives, but because of their prominence their private affairs have a news value and on that account the public is burdened and very seriously damaged by the prominence given by the press to their offenses.

The Complete Newspaper and What Makes It So

What do you want to read about in a newspaper, first of all? The news of course, first of all. But because the newspaper is read by men and women and children with many ideas as to what is interesting, a newspaper has to be keenly alive to the desires of every one. That is the reason for the page for women with the advice of Virginia Page, the helpful aid of Mrs. Thompson, its daily household hints, its satire in the Tossie and Joe letters, its story appealing to women each day—all these things are designed to be entertaining and helpful. Then the children who will be the citizens of the future in a few years are not overlooked. For them Billy Whiskers has a daily episode in his life of excitement and the Boys' and Girls' Gazette is filled with interesting knowledge. Useful Bird Citizens add to the store of information. For the people generally there is the serial story selected from among hundreds offered, and for which the publishers are paid a goodly price. Dinner Stories, Dr. Brady's Health Talks, the Horoscope for the curious, and answers to a thousand questions by the Gazette Bureau maintained at Washington. Daily, too, there is the letter from Frederick J. Haskin, informing and interesting. In its markets the Gazette recieves the daily Associated Press reports boiled down for the busy reader, live, stock and grain, and the closing stocks—the barometer of money and business. David Lawrence in his letter each day gives a personal view of men and things at Washington. He is recognized as one of the foremost of the writers at the national capital. These are all features that appear in the Gazette simultaneously with the Wisconsin papers, and the Gazette reader receives the same service and is able to obtain the same literature and news as the local and Madison officials of the Gazette. By that method the best and most important events of the day are given the same afternoon to the readers of the Gazette. Each Saturday there are features added—The Fourth installment of the Confessions of a Matrimonial Agent will appear on Saturday this week. It reveals the facts in several mysterious in death and intrigue not heretofore known. And in the Saturday Gazette there is the number of other special features purchased for the better information of Gazette readers and additions to the regular news of the day.

CHARGE ECKSTEIN WITH SWINDLE ON BLACKHAWK BONDS

COURT ACTION TAKEN FRIDAY TO PROTECT BOND HOLDERS. FRAUD IS ALLEGED

When Milwaukee Broker Converts $25,000 on Bonds for Own Uses.

Roman A. Eckstein, Milwaukee stock and bond speculator, is named as a defendant in a suit of the bondholders for the Blackhawk bonds being built here by James H. Cullen, Janesville, which charges Eckstein with converting a part of the Janesville bonds to his own use for fraudulent purposes. The complaint, which names a number of Janesville and Beloit bondholders, was filed in the Rock county circuit court Friday afternoon, with Roger and Robert Cunningham representing nine plaintiffs. The case discloses a long legal tangle over the sale of $60,000 worth of bonds, which were put on the market for the Blackhawk apartment building on East Milwaukee street, which is now partially completed. The question is raised as to the validity of certain bonds sold by R. A. Eckstein. The real object of the action is to determine which of the bonds already sold constitute valid issues.

YANK TROOPS ROUT MEXICAN GANG

Serving 6 Months' Time. Eckstein was given a six months' sentence in the house of correction in Milwaukee for violating the federal liquor laws. The state charges against him in this case are that he sold liquor to soldiers in the house of correction, and is to be pressed, according to statements made over the wire from Milwaukee, as soon as Eckstein is released from the penal institution. The Milwaukee press has set the case for hearing on April 7. An injunction is to be obtained restraining bond holders named in the complaint from transferring or converting the Blackhawk bonds until the court has opportunity of making a decision in the case. Both the complaint and the answer to the charges were filed in circuit court here Friday afternoon.

HARDING MEETS IRISH SQUARELY

Refuses U. S. Troops to March in Evacuation Day Parade.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington.—President Harding has had his first taste of the Irish problem and has met the issue squarely by declining to permit the United States government to be drawn into any action that might be construed as a recognition of the Irish republic.

Mr. Harding received a telegram couched in terms so dispassionate and so caustic that he did not answer it in person but directed his secretary to sign the reply. The message which was sent by John F. Harrigan, state president of the Massachusetts Council of the American Association for the recognition of the Irish Republic, reads as follows:

About March 17 parade. General Ruckman and Admiral Anson in present statements say that to permit troops to march in partisan demonstration especially one unfriendly to another nation would be a serious breach of international unity. The evacuation of Ireland is a local demonstration of loyalty and patriotism that no devotee of Terrorism, no matter how exalted his position, can support. Any such demonstration is a disgrace to the American government.

Ruckman and Anson asked the officials of the Evacuation Day parade if the American Association for the recognition of the Irish Republic intended to participate in the parade. When they were told "Yes," they warned against the parade with them. When they were told "No," they warned against the parade with them.

The sending of the Harrigan message to Mr. Harding was the subject of a long conference after which President Harding decided that it was time to make clear the position of his administration on the Irish question. He himself feels the warmest sympathy with the aspirations of the Irish people and would be an individual without official responsibility for the conduct of foreign relations. He would gladly speak his views or participate in any of the demonstrations in behalf of the Irish cause.

Weeks and Denby, too, the United States is in charge of the relations and obliged daily to deal with the government of Great Britain with which the United States is at peace. He cannot permit anything to be done that might be construed as a subject of official complaint. Secretary Weeks, of the war department, who holds from Massachusetts and knows the Irish influence in that state, joined with Secretary Denby, of the navy department, in upholding the action of Gen. Ruckman and Admiral Anson in refusing to permit American soldiers and sailors to march in a parade where the flag of any unrecognized country was flown.

Irish for Harding.
Mr. Harding during the last campaign was regarded for a time as likely to take an active part when elected in furthering the aspirations of the Irish sympathizers. He did not, however, when Mr. issue was put before him in October to state that he regarded the question of Irish freedom as matter between Ireland and Great Britain and he held that it was not within the province of the United States government to interfere in any manner. Governor Cox, on the other hand, said he would agree to take the Irish problem for settlement before the League of Nations and would, if elected, bring it officially to the attention of the foreign governments. This was not regarded by the Irish as of any importance. Because they were pledged against the League of Nations itself. Notwithstanding Gov. Cox's statement, the great body of Americans of Irish descent left the administration and voted the republican ticket. It by their votes they hoped to influence Mr. Harding into taking a stand when president that he was unwilling to take as a candidate for the presidency.

Mr. Harding has made it clear that he will not depart from the policy pursued by President Wilson of refusing to make an official issue of the Irish question.

STREET-CAR LINE FILES $350 CLAIM

Alleged City's Negligence Caused Accident in Which Motorman Was Hurt.

Alleging negligence on the part of the city, the Janesville Traction company has filed a claim for $345 against the city for injuries to Billie McLaughlin, motorman, and damages to the street car he was driving when he met with an accident March 10. The claim has been filed with the city clerk by Supt. J. R. Wolfe, and will be brought up at the council meeting Monday night.

$300 Damage Bill
The company's bill against the city is made up of three items:

Wages to McLaughlin, $45.85.
Doctor's bill, $100.
Damages to car, $200.
Total, $345.85.

McLaughlin was badly cut about about the head when he was thrown through the glass in the front of the street car as it came to an abrupt stop upon striking an iron gutter plate at the intersection of South Franklin and West Milwaukee streets.

Plato Was Loose

In his claim, Supt. Wolfe declares the accident happened "by reason of insufficiency of repairs" and that the storm sewer covering was defective, loose, and insecure. The section, Wolfe says, got out of place and the city knows it, he contends.

The United Agricultural Association of Canada has signed a preliminary agreement for an increase of rainfall for the season between May 1 and August 1. The "rain-maker" broker will be paid $4,000 an inch, with a maximum of $18,000 for a four-inch rainfall.

$1,400 VERDICT FOR 4-YEAR OLD CHILD

Grimm Rules Youngsters Have Right to Play in Public Streets.

After being out for four hours and arriving at an average amount, the jury trying the case of Laverne Kressin, by guardian, against the Rockford & Guardian company, returned a verdict for the plaintiff settling the personal injury damages at $1,383.33. Numerous ballots were necessary to determine the amount of damages to be given the four-year-old child.

Defense Motion Over-ruled.

Before the case was given to the jury, Judge George Grimm in an interesting decision over-ruled the motion of William H. Dougherty, of the defense, to non-suit the case on the claim the children have no legal right to play on the traction property or in the streets.

"I believe that children in the city have some right to play in the streets," ruled Judge Grimm. "To my way of thinking it is one reason why the American children are so active, so quick to learn, although there are dangers."

Hurt by Car.
On this ruling that minors have a subsequent right to use the streets, the case went to the jury. The action was founded on injuries suffered by the Kressin boy, 3 years of age, when caught in the wheels of a traction street car on South Jackson street. Children had managed to start a work car by using an improvised lever for the power and when it was in motion it backed into the Kressin child was hanging on the back of the work car and suffered injuries to his legs and body.

in Maxfield Case Against Grundy.

Negotiations were under way Friday for the settlement of the tobacco contract case of Alva Maxfield et al. against Samuel Grundy, Janesville tobacco buyer, in the Rock county circuit court. The damages asked amount to $1,000, according to the complaint.

Refused Crop, Complaint.
 The point at issue is over the alleged failure of the defendant to fulfill his contract with Alva Maxfield, farmer north of Janesville, for tobacco raised on a 10 acre tract in 1919. The complaint alleged Grundy signed a contract with Maxfield to take the crop at a price of 12 cents for the blenders and 2 cents for the trash. It is claimed Grundy refused to accept the crop and the plaintiff sold on the open market for 12 1/2 cents and 3 cents. There were 12,000 pounds of good tobacco and 1,124 of the lower grade. The loss alleged amounts to $1,000.

OLD STONE FENCES
GIVE WAY TO WIRE

Of all the great changes wrought in the farming industry in Rock county during the last century perhaps none is more noticeable than that in fencing.

There are few stone fences left in the county, which are monuments to the patience and thoroughness of the earlier generations. One of the few stone fences, made of flat limestone is on a farm on the Delavan road near Emerald Grove. Once in a while a piece of split rail fence is found in southern Wisconsin.

The manner in which the fence is erected has much to do with its service. The ends and corners are by far the most important elements of a fence. It is essential that they be made firm and solid in order to hold the fence rigid. The first thing to consider is placing the corners. The posts used should be large enough to give sufficient strength; they should be set deep enough to prevent heaving by the action of frost.

To construct a woven-wire fence properly it is necessary to have a proven-wire stretcher, a single wire stretcher to be used in attaching the fence to the end posts, a pair of wire cutters, a barbed wire stretcher, a splicing tool, and a hammer or a wire fence. Concrete and iron fence posts can be found on many farmers still cling to the wooden posts. They often treat them as thoroughly seasoned wooden posts correctly set in the ground lasts for years. The best time for fence work is in the spring when frost is out of the ground.

Modern farming demands now call for an improved fence, barbed wire, large mesh wire, or other varieties of wire fences. Concrete and iron fence posts can be found on many

DIAMOND MINE DOWN IN ARKANSAS

Only One of Its Kind Ever Discovered in Western Hemisphere.

[By Associated Press.]
Murphreesboro, Ark.—The only diamond mine thus far discovered on the Western Hemisphere is located in Pike county, Ark., in which this hamlet is situated. The mine is two and a half miles south of here.

The diamonds are found in a "pipe" the crater of an extinct volcano which ages ago boiled up through the surface, had its terrific heat chilled by the waters of an inland sea, and left bits of diamond scattered throughout the peridotite which now fills the crater, to be pressed into diamonds by the contraction of the rock. The peridotite forming the original matrix of the diamonds and thus far the only diamonds found in the Western Hemisphere in their matrices are those of Pike county. Diamonds have been found in some twenty-five states in Canada and America, but always in river beds where, geologists surmise, they have been washed by the waters, or in places where it is presumed they have been deposited by glacial action.

The first Arkansas diamond was found in 1906 by John Huddleston, then owner of the farm on which the "pipe" is located. It was by accident that Huddleston observed outcroppings of the gray-green rock, since called as peridotite and came to the conclusion that his hillside contained valuable mineral. He began prospecting around without finding anything which looked to him like mineral, he picked up a crystal, and then one day showed it to some friends in Murphreesboro. A little later he pronounced it a diamond and made sure by verifications by jewel experts in New York.

The mining operations in Arkansas for several years at least, will be far different from those of the South African fields, although the formations are the same. In Africa deep shafts are sunk, the peridotite is brought to the surface and spread on drying floors for periods ranging from six to eighteen months. The rock has the peculiar quality of absorbing moisture from the air. In Arkansas, however, except for a few places, the peridotite already has been disintegrated to a depth of about twenty feet.

MAN WHO KILLED SUFFERING GIRL GIVEN FREEDOM

Brussels.—The question whether one person is guilty of a crime in hastening the death of another who is suffering from a mortal wound has been decided in the negative here in the case of a married man who shot and killed a girl who had attempted to commit suicide. His plea was that the shooting occurred in the Bois de Cambre, Brussels' largest public park.

"Celine ran from the path into a thicket," said Hermann. "I heard a shot and ran after her. She had shot herself in the temple but was still alive. I could not see her suffer and I took her revolver and shot her in the neck. Then she was still and I shot myself."

Hermann recovered from his wound and was in prison for eight months until acquitted. Medical testimony given at the trial was to the effect that the girl's suicidal wound ultimately would have been fatal.

Uncle Joe Testifies to Champ Clark's Memory

Bowling Green, Mo.—Uncle Joe Adams, care taker at the late Champ Clark's home "Honey Shuck" here, is authority for the statement that the dead statesman was possessed of remarkable memory. One of Mr. Clark's prized possessions at "Honey Shuck" was an extensive library and "Uncle Joe" in talking of it said: "Champ Clark loved these papers and books, and he knew exactly where everyone of them was. Why, he would write me a letter something like this: 'Dear Joe: Look on the third shelf, six papers from the end,' and sure enough it would be just where he said it was. He never made an error this way."

Churches Here Plan Services for Holy Week

The last of the week of Lenten union meetings of six Protestant churches at the Congregational church will be held Friday evening when Rev. Robert Gordon Ford du Lac will speak his message on the "Meaning of the Cross."

The Baptist, Christian, Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian and United Brethren, the churches co-operating will hold simultaneous meetings in their churches starting Monday continuing throughout Holy week up to Easter Sunday. There will be no union service at the Congregational church Saturday night, but there will be a union service Sunday evening at which Rev. Frank Springer will preach. There will be a special musical program.

Speaking Thursday night on "By Roads to Faith," Rev. Mr. Gordon declared that faith means fellowship with the living God. "A blind beggar" declared Mr. Gordon "is like a man who knows only a hypothetical God. There is no more pathetic a spectacle than a blind beggar. He has never seen the hills or the stars. He

His Saturday Night Habit.

We have a savings depositor who started his first bank account after we began staying open Saturday nights. His deposits have never been very large but he always deposits all he can spare every week. If you see his bank book now you would wonder how he did it, for his salary is not large. The habit of saving something—all he can—every week is the secret of his success. Start Saturday night—try his plan. It pays handsomely.

Spring Opening Here Is Success

Spring opening, which started in the majority of Janesville stores Thursday and Friday and will continue until Saturday evening, is considered among local merchants as good as any ever held. While some were dubious because they did not have a great rush of business, others declared that the comparison is based upon general business conditions of the country shows as good business as previously.

The entire past week, it is generally stated among the retailers, has been the best for 1921 so far. Saturday it is predicted will be the heaviest business day of all. The Saturday before Palm Sunday is always the heaviest day in Janesville, and wear of the entire year, declared one man.

Not the same efforts were made this year as in previous years for spring opening. The number of people making purchases is held by most to be large therefore.

MERCHANTS MEET.
 Whether there will be a continuation of the retail department of the Chamber of Commerce will be decided at a meeting of merchants to be held at the Chamber rooms at 7:30 Friday night.

TIME TO GROW UP TO THE COUNTRY.

There was not only truth but economic fact in what J. A. Craig said at the demonstration of the Samson Tractor company about buying and the duty of the public in the matter of keeping it.
We have daily demonstrations of the fact that the public is able to buy and has money to spend.
In the matter of a boxing contest it was shown that people to the capacity of the largest public exhibition place in the city would pay $2.50 for tickets. Then we have a horse sale with $9,000 worth of horses sold all for cash with two exceptions where notes were given for deferred payments. We have other facts also showing that there is still money in the hands of the public.
While this is true and demonstrable, it is also true that there has been a halt in the buying of things —no matter what, from the simplest article to the costly and luxurious.

We will never return to normalcy until we again get to a normal condition of buying. There is, as Mr. Craig stated, not a tractor manufacturing plant in the country working full time, half time even, or with more than a few skeleton organizations. Many of these plants are old and long established. If they have suffered from the cessation of buying, it is natural that the Samson among the newest of the plants should be a party to the "no market" conditions.

How long will it last? That is answerable only by the consumer and buyer. When he begins to buy, then the factories will open, labor will be employed, men will have money to buy food and clothing for themselves and families and we will have the stream moving in its ordinary course.
Until then there will be the same condition that characterizes the nation now—stagnation and loss everywhere.

The fact is well established that we buy property with our own money. The laborer purchases food products and gets that back in his regular pay envelope because he has made it possible for the farmer to have the money with which to deal with the factory and keep the laborer employed. That applies in varying ways with all persons involved in the transactions.

What we need in Janesville is to pull together to aid our industries and so convince the others that we will do our share in making the wheels go round.

The favorite hymn tune of the Wisconsin legislature must be that old jubilee melody beginning,
"I'm sometimes up and sometimes down."

ONE MORE BUSTED N-P DREAM.

While at Madison we are facing the activity of the nonpartisan league in its attempt to socialize the business of the state, a receiver has been appointed in North Dakota for the Consumers United Stores company, a corporation fostered by the nonpartisan league and engaged in the morchantile business. Most of the $981,000 of assets is in notes given for stock which the makers are unable to pay. It is one more of those "wind" companies which the carpet bag league would like to set up in Wisconsin. Its heaviest debt is to the nonpartisan league bank, the Scandinavian-American, recently failed at Fargo. If Russia is a paper money republic, North Dakota seems to be an uncollectible note state.

The trouble with John J. Esch was that he did not have a single track mind.

ONE ACT OF RETRIBUTIVE JUSTICE.

However much one may be horrified at the assassination of Talaat Pasha, former Grand Vizier, by the hand of an Armenian, there is an element of satisfaction in the retributive justice of the deed. He with Enver and Djemal or Kemal Pasha formed the bloody trio that outdid Sultan Abdul Hamid in the frightful slaughter of the Armenians. This trio also was responsible for the Ottoman empire joining Germany in the war.
It was therefore perfectly in keeping with his past record that when the war was over, Talaat should look, with his three companions, the Turkish treasury and get away with $15,000,000 in gold and find a joyous welcome and asylum in Germany.
He was assassinated at Charlottenburg, one of the former residence places of the Kaiser. His companion, Djemal, is the head of the rag-tag and bob-tail of the Turkish army now seeking to make peace with the entente, while Enver is lost somewhere in the Caucasus.

Mourning for Talaat will not be very deep in Armenia.

What the world wants to see in the Hamon case is the immediate effacement of the principal woman. She need not think that because a jury has acquitted her that she has received a certificate of character. "Go thou and sin no more," did not mean that the woman should get out 3-sheet bills about her sin, and trip into the center of the stage for the idly curious.

Japan has no shame about demanding war prizes for little deeds.

Now that the Hamon case is disposed of, we may turn to the I. W. W. for interesting criminal news.

Epidemic Mysteries

By FREDERICK J. HASKIN

New York City.—Besides typhus, New York has been visited by two new and altogether amuzing epidemics this year. One of them is sleeping sickness; and the other is that common and heretofore insignificant malady, known as hiccups. At least, so they are called, but neither is running true to type.

For the sleeping sickness, which is now so prevalent in New York, is not the same as the famous sleeping sickness of Africa, the cause of which is well understood. Nor is the present epidemic of hiccups in any way related to those gentle attacks, occasionally experienced by every one, more especially since the pocket flask has become so popular. The new hiccups are singularly malignant and persistent, and are not at all harmless. They attack their victim every few seconds during the day, and are not always to be suppressed by deep breaths, drinks of water, chunks of bread, and other well known devices.
Sometimes a hiccup spasm lasts for over an hour, and the hiccup series extends for weeks at a stretch.

Both epidemics, affecting hundreds of persons, have completely baffled the best medical men, and all other medical men, for that matter. No one has been able to discover how or whence they came; what to do for them while here, or how to get rid of them. From the great medical research laboratories of the city, such as that of the Rockefeller Foundation, have come various theories as to their cause, none of which has proved convincing.

The most interesting one recently advanced is that the two epidemics are in some mysterious and subtle way connected; that prolonged attacks of hiccups are merely one of the many irritating symptoms of sleeping sickness; yet this is by no means unanimously accepted.

The only fact accepted without challenge concerning encephalitis lethargica, which is a s. s. s. impressive scientific name, is that it does not spring from the same cause as the African malady of the same name. The latter is known to be produced by the bite of the tsetse fly, whose chief diet is the blood of the crocodile. "In drinking the crocodile's blood," according to an official of the New York Health Department, "the tsetse fly imbibes the lazy bug lurking therein. The lazy bug doesn't do the crocodile any harm, and it doesn't do the tsetse fly any harm, but when the said unpronounceable fly injects the lazy bug into horses and cattle it kills them, or they thousands, and it does the same thing to humans, especially the best of them. In three years, its deadly bite killed 100,000 natives in one African province."

But the new sleeping sickness, not more than two years old, must be something entirely different, because we have no tsetse flies in this part of the world, and the only crocodiles about New York are kept behind a glass window in the Zoo. Still, Dr. Leishman is striving gallantly to supply it. Some of its members firmly believe that it is merely an after-effect of influenza, but this does not help much, because the influenza germ remains to be identified. Besides this, many others among the profession are equally certain that influenza has nothing to do with the new affliction.

"It is a fact that many of our sleeping sickness patients have had influenza," declares Dr. Joseph P. Neal of the Research Department of the Willard Park Hospital here, "but we must remember that a large part of the population of this city has been afflicted by the last epidemic of nearly three years' duration. So you see that it is only to be expected that among sleeping sickness patients there will be a certain percentage who have had influenza, which attracted much attention for a brief period to the effect that the disease was the same as infantile paralysis. The symptoms, it was pointed out, were greatly alike, in spite of the fact that they were also like the symptoms of typhoid fever. Just as the bewildered layman laid aside one statement in the pleasant belief that the mystery had been solved, along came another from some other authority, asserting that sleeping sickness was not the slightest bit similar to infantile paralysis; that one was a disease of the brain, and the other a disease of the spine."

Never have doctors disagreed more widely. Not only do they disagree as to the cause of the sleeping sickness, but they disagree as to its symptoms.
At first, it seemed to be generally accepted that the symptoms were: drooping of the eyelids, unconsciousness of surroundings, headache, and in-extinguishable, cold, clammy, and vomiting. At extreme cases, coming before the public's attention seemed to corroborate this. A couple of victims were picked up sound asleep in subway trains, and upon refusing to be awakened, were carried to the nearest hospitals, where they were at once diagnosed as sleeping sickness patients.
A prominent city official, a university professor, and nearly 300 other New Yorkers fell into the same state. More and more unconsciousness all the time. It is expected that the epidemic will rapidly decline with the approach of spring.

Sleepiness, drowsiness, then, are the chief symptoms of the disease, which Dr. Osler has described as "a diffuse inflammation of the brain substance." Yet recently we have also been informed that sleeping sickness may not be a disease at all, but may produce an extreme, wakeful state, in which the patient is feverish and restless.

It is all very bewildering, even to the doctors, and now comes the hiccup epidemic to complicate matters. Are hiccups a part of the restless aspect of sleeping sickness, or are they a manifestation of some new and independent germ, working on its own erratic course? No one knows. We do know that cases of sustained hiccups have suddenly sprung up both in Europe and this country, and that sometimes they occur alone and unaccompanied by any other disease.

"Pathologically, this prevalence of hiccups seems to be associated with irritation of the phrenic nerve from gastro-intestinal disturbance; from neuritis, or from remote disturbances of the central nervous system not yet determined," says one authority, writing for a medical journal.

"In pneumonia or typhoid fever, hiccups, perhaps due primarily to the effects of bacterial toxins, may be a serious complicating factor, even causing death."

"In pneumonia or typhoid fever, hiccups, perhaps, many cases have occurred in which patients hiccuped every three or four seconds for periods of a week or longer."

"Lhermitte points out that the first appearance of the epidemic of which he knows occurred in Vienna in the winter of 1916-17. Large numbers of persons were suddenly attacked with spasms of hiccups and did not respond to treatment. After a few days, but there was one case in which they persisted for a month, the patient having only a few hours rest each day."

This authority also asserts that there have been hiccup epidemics for centuries, none of which has ever been understood. The same mechanical therapeutic measures have always been used, compression of the eyeballs or on the snout, compres-sion of the arms, pulling down a chunk of bread, and stretching the diaphragm by forcible flexion of the legs. The same measures are used today.
The only thing new in the hiccup situation is its suspected connection with encephalitis, which seems only to deepen the mystery.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

THE BEST-LOVED MAN.
It isn't all in getting rich, it isn't all in winning a game.
A bigger thing than victory is how you've tried to play the game.
Success is keeping faith with men and standing true to what is best.
And finding joy in humble things and being fit for every test.

The good man need not come to wealth nor need he rise to power and renown.
Not often is the richest man the best-loved citizen in town;
You'll find he walks in humble ways and modest is the garb he wears day to day life piles a multitude of cares.

His glory is a generous heart, a voice that carries hope and cheer.
A willingness to do his work, a wish to be of service here;
He asks no favored place from life, nor shirks
the hardest bit of his career.
But meets all men with head erect and plays the friend from day to day.

The best loved man in any town is honest, manly, sharing his life with all who live, doing what work he finds to do;
He may not climb the heights of fame nor come to treasure's golden foe,
But he will accomplish great in all God asks a man to be.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

One minister of the dress-reform symposium says that silk stockings should not be worn.
Anyhow, a woman with taste will wear stockings that are worn, especially when the worn place is where it will show, so that seems to settle that.

A prominent optometrist has made the startling statement that all attractive blondes should be deported. "They hurt men's eyes," he says.
There is no question about it. Men who are looking at flashy blondes also yellow hair. Men look at blondes too constantly."

The doctor may be right, but it is to be hoped that we are to be allowed a few pleasures in this country. Anyhow, a woman with taste will wear certainly better brands of hosiery. When that was shut off they began getting eye trouble by staring at blondes. Men simply seem to be determined to continue eye trouble in some way.
Men, by the way, have been looking at blondes for many years. They took quite an interest in Cleopatra. Among the famous gentlemen who spent a great deal of time and money looking at her was Old Uncle J. C. C. and Marc Antoine. Nobody ever heard of either of them wearing eyeglasses or being obliged to sit in a dark room, but enough other things happened to them to make up for that.

The blondes are a peculiar trouble causers, and the only other class who have caused as much eye trouble as the blondes. Men will never agree as to which have caused the most. Some have admitted one style and some the other.

But what in the name of common sense will be gained by spoiling half our musical shows and practically all our movies by deporting the blondes? If they are deported half of the men will follow them and keep on contracting eye trouble.

A Chicago woman confessed that she had ac-cided as sure in at least fifty holdups staged by her husband, and said: "My husband is losing his husband, and we are obliged to become bandits." It sounds very well, but who ever heard of a bandit being in that business for his life?

A minister says silk stockings should not be worn. We'll say so—especially on the heel.

coming to the U. S. with a message of friendliness and appreciation from the French people ments of his countrymen to Viviani is the Frenchman who directed France's policies during the greater part of the war.

When the French ministry resigned in 1917, 1917, while the war clouds became darker daily, Viviani was asked to form a new cabinet with himself as premier. He named his cabinet within an hour. Many of the members were ex-premiers.
During the war, Viviani took charge of the French government, and he was in charge of living early rising and regular business hours in order to handle the arduous tasks heaped on his shoulders.

Viviani visited the U. S. in 1917. He originally planned to visit early in the war, that

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

March 18, 1881.—There will be a meeting of the citizens at the Hyers house next Monday evening to consider the question of having the state fair here this year.—The mail was only 25 minutes late this morning, which makes one feel that things are getting back to normal after the snow storm.

MARCH 18, 1890.—The Markew Croft building in Edgerton was totally destroyed by fire last evening.—A preliminary list of voters in the city makes the number 2,712. The first ward has the largest number and the third ward the least. The Literary Society gave a St. Patrick's Day program last evening.

MARCH 18, 1901.—The W. C. T. U. has made an ordinance for curfew in this city and is trying to get the council to pass it. A petition in favor of this ordinance has been signed by about 500. It pertains to children under 15.—Peter Hogan, father of Chief of Police John Hogan died last night at the home of his daughter.

TEN YEARS AGO
March 18, 1911.—Amos Rehberg, of the lighting committee of the Industrial and Commercial club has made a tour of the west to see what kind of lights should be installed on the downtown streets. He found that the arrangement of lights here are out of date and that the larger cities have light standards. The council will take some action on the matter Monday night.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

NEURITIS
Neuritis is inflammation of a nerve or nerves, characterized by pain in the course of the nerve or the parts which it serves. It is distributed in a burning, boring character, rather worse at night and aggravated by movement or use of the nerve or nerves involved. The affected part; tenderness to pressure; redness and perhaps puffiness (edema)
of the skin of the region involved; weakness or partial paralysis of the muscles supplied by the affected nerve; and after several weeks or months atrophy or wasting of the muscles.

Thus the silly popular habit, encouraged by some equally silly doctors of dubbing every passing ache or pain "a touch of neuritis," is most misleading. The word "neuritis" means inflammation, not pain. In many cases of neuritis the pain ceases after a time, but the disability (from partial paralysis of the affected muscle group) continues many months, recovery being gradual, but usually complete.

It is possible to mention only a few familiar causes of neuritis and a few rules for the prevention of neuritis.
The most common cause of neuritis is prolonged exposure to cold.

The factor most commonly cited by the ancients or of acute in the case of old people is exposure to cold.
We old fossils keep on "exposure to cold" when we don't know what all that means. Paralysis is a common result of the facial nerve, causing a rather abrupt paralysis of one side of the face, blithely ascribed to "ex-posure to cold." The victim is usually able to have recovery without the rabbits foot in his pocket in the weeks preceding the attack. The fact is that "exposure to cold" means that the nerve is irritated by cold, and we don't know how to prevent it. We are at it, as yet, and we must soothe the patient's natural curiosity until we find out how to prevent it. The actual causes of facial paralysis (Bell's palsy) are infection and inflammation of the middle ear, scarlet fever, tumor in the brain, localization of neuritis in some cases, injury to the nerve trunk itself at the point where it emerges from the skull back of the jaw.

Inflammation of one or more nerves of the trunk or limbs (limbs means arms and legs) is caused by injury to the nerve, by extension of the inflammation from the brain or spinal cord, or by the circulation of poison or alcohol, lead or arsenic in chronic poisoning by these poisons; by the circulation of poison of such infectious diseases as diphtheria, typhoid fever, scarlet fever, and in tropical climates by the lack of vitamins in the diet (the use of poisoned rice as a staple, rather than the unpolished brown rice is the cause of the multiple neuritis known as beriberi).

From the variable and non-specific nature of neuritis it will be evident that no remedy can be considered useful indiscriminately. The most important thing is absolute rest of the affected part or of the whole body, for the same reason and in the same way you rest a fracture.

overcome the trouble forever—feet

At the State Capital

Madison.—Spanish-American war veterans are appealing to the legislature for recognition and an appropriation of $500 to be used for annual encampments. There are now 41 camps about the state. It was stated that efforts are made to have the encampments at different parts of the state each year, but because of the lack of funds, trips to these northern sections have been impossible. Barnboe has been chosen as the point of meeting this year.

All objections to the proposed bill of Senator Herbert Huber relating to the manufacture of articles in tenement and dwelling houses for any factory or contractor were eliminated at the second hearing of the measure before the senate public welfare committee.

Explanation of the clause requiring a label on all such articles prepared outside of factories was asked by Carl W. Ems of the Milwaukee Merchant Tailors' association. E. E. Witte, secretary of the industrial commission, stated that such a label was placed in the proposed law for purposes of enforcement of health regulations.

Action on the measure to create a permanent fund for the support of the common schools, normal schools, and the university by transferring 70 per cent of the inheritance tax returns from the general fund to this special use will not be made until the taxation problem of the state is settled.

Faced with the absolute need of increased revenue if it is to meet conditions resulting from the over rising enrollment, the University of Wisconsin started presentation of its budget of $1,175,551 for the coming biennium, to the joint finance committee Wednesday afternoon. University requests involve the largest single amount of money the legislature will have to deal with this session.

The university with an increase in attendance during the past ten years of 70 per cent, has been allowed an increase in the amount of its appropriations equal to 57 per cent of that 10 years ago.

One great need of the university was said to be for buildings. The budget calls for $1,569,800 annually to provide for increases in the capital account. During the past two years it has been necessary to scrape along with 7,000 students in an institution built for 5,000.

The housing situation in the university was declared to be worse than in the country at large since the university has been growing in population more rapidly and since there has been no new appropriation for a building of any size since 1912.

It was shown that the library was planned twenty years ago for 1,500 students and is totally inadequate to handle the 7,000 students. The symnasium was built when there were 700 men in the institution and was not contemplated to be adequate to handle the 5,000 men now enrolled. Committee members were shown about the institution in automobiles after the hearing.

Strawberry trees, blue and ever-blooming peonies, seedless and pulpless grapes, full-blooming purple lilacs, and other equally imaginary varieties of plants have been sold to Wisconsin people. Dr. S. B. Fracker, state entomologist, announced in stating that varnishes had been issued for the arrest of the salesmen. The agent for an alleged nursery company had been securing orders for his non-existent plants which totalled several hundred dollars, it was said. He had piled his trade particularly in East Milwaukee.

According to horticulturists, there are no known plants such as were described. The photograph of a supposed "strawberry tree" growing 8 to 10 feet in height and bearing quantities of luscious strawberries is said to have been particularly alluring.

The University of Wisconsin has a "bargain counter" president, according to E. A. Birge, who holds that office.

Appearing before the joint legislative finance committee to explain the university appropriation requests, President Birge compared salaries at the state university and the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor. Michigan, he said, pays slightly higher salaries to its professors, assistants, and instructors.

"How do the president's salaries compare?" Assemblyman George Oakes asked.

"Why you've got a bargain counter, Sears-Robuck president," President Birge retorted. "How do the university regent interjected that Michigan pays its university head $3,000 a year more than Wisconsin."

The Skogmo bill to reorganize the administrative system for Wisconsin schools, will have the active opposition of C. P. Cary, superintendent of public instruction. He feels that enactment of the proposed legislation would further encroach on his constitutional prerogatives as the one constitutional officer named as head of the schools. Under the bill which will be considered soon, the superintendent of public instruction is given membership on the new board of education and retains his position with the other educational board of the state, where he exercises an influential position.

Senator J. Henry Bennett's plan to establish a juvenile protective bureau will not be considered by the committee until March 31.

Possibility that a bill relating to taxation and tax levies for school purposes, introduced by Senator John A. Conant, will be withdrawn by the author was made evident at the hearing of the senate education and public welfare committee Thursday afternoon. Opposition to the measure has convinced Senator Conant that the committee will recommend it for indefinite postponement. Witnesses present stressed the point that should the measure pass permitting cities to raise the rate of taxes from 5 1/2 per cent to 5 per cent of the property valuation, it would merely give municipalities an opportunity to spend more money and set an undesirable precedent.

Child labor permits were issued to 45,329 children in the state during the past year, according to figures of the industrial commission. Of these, 25,567 were issued in Milwaukee. Outside of Milwaukee, Racine was the only county issuing more than 1,000 permits. There were between 500 and 1,000 children given permission to work in Winnebago, Sheboygan, La Crosse, Manitowish, Rock, Dane, and Kenosha counties. On the other hand, there were less than 10 permits given in Burnett, Iowa, Iron, Lafayette, Marquette, Pepin, Pierce, Washburn, St. Croix, and Waushara counties.

The extension activities of the University of Wisconsin outside of Madison were described to the joint finance committee of the legislature Thursday by deans of the colleges and President E. A. Birge. Extension was given of the ways in which the institution directly reaches 20,000 through its extension courses, and thousands more indirectly through its agricultural activities.

Wisconsin citizens, regardless of property qualification, should continue to hold the privilege of voting at municipal bond elections, the assembly held Thursday night when it voted, 73 to 15, to indefinitely postpone the Stokes bill. Passage of the measure would have restricted voting on local bond issues to taxpayers.

Denial of suffrage to thousands of women just given the ballot, and to thousands of young men and women just entered upon the young age, would result from passage of the Stokes bill which it was claimed by speakers, would be an injustice.

Those favoring the measure explained that it aimed to exclude irresponsible citizens, who bore none of the expense of government.

Wisconsin has 100,000 farms located on good agricultural land, which can be reclaimed by clearing, the finance committee of the legislature was told by Dean H. L. Russell of the College of Agriculture. An appropriation of $25,000 was asked to extend the work.

The assembly indicated its attitude toward proposed reapportionment of tax revenue between state, counties, and cities when it killed, 70 to 22, a proposal of Assemblyman Edwards to give the state a share in revenue derived from piers, docks, warehouses and grain elevators. Under existing laws the $358,000 derived from these sources is retained by the municipality. The Edwards bill, recommended for passage by the assembly taxation committee, proposed to give the state 15 per cent of the revenue, the counties 20 per cent, and the municipality 65 per cent.

Only scattered opposition was registered against six appropriation bills aggregating $335,250, and they were sent to engrossment and then finally passed under suspended rules. Appropriation of $1,500 purchase of a portrait of former Gov. Philipp was the one bill involving money to meet opposition. After being handled about early in the session it was sent back to committee and emerged Thursday night for passage.

but was held up by request of socialist members of Milwaukee.

Interest rate on highway bonds should be raised from 5 to 6 per cent, the assembly decided in its vote, 83 to 4, passing the Young bill. At the present rate it was declared almost impossible to raise money for road building purposes.

An "about face" was executed by the lower house on the action by which it sent the Anderson bill, repealing the law creating divorce counsels, to third reading. When the measure came up for final passage it was killed by a vote of 40 to 50.

Adding as a postscript, "Burn this letter," is your cue to start the conflagration yourself.

Work at Kitchen Stove Started This Woman on Road to Success

By EDITH E. MORIARTY.

It was a piece of purple cake which started me in quest of Mrs. Harriet Cole Emmons. And then after I had met Mrs. Emmons it was she who sent me back in quest of the purple cake. I had heard against highly colored foodstuffs, someone said, "Let Mrs. Emmons tell you about these days and you will come back for more."

And I did.

Mrs. Harriet Cole Emmons looks like the kind of a woman with whom you would want to have tea or lunch, and chat about clothes and plays and now books and perhaps exchange confidences as to favorite motion picture actresses, and so it is with a little surprise and fascination that one listens to her talk with intimate knowledge about the ins and outs of the dye industry.

Five years ago Mrs. Emmons faced the necessity of earning her own living. She became associated with the advertising of a food product just put on the market. Today that product is known all over the country and Mrs. Emmons finds time to do some advertising for American-made dyes. She is one of the few women holding a position of importance in the dye industry in America. Yet she had practically no training for a business career, "except a far-seeing mother and a course in home economics and work in her own kitchen."

In the domestic science department at Pratt Institute Mrs. Emmons learned the theory of housekeeping. The practical side she learned by ten years of experience in her own home. Eight of these years were spent on a hundred-acre farm in New York state and her experience in getting meals for twenty-two threshers without aid of a servant may be called real post-graduate work.

When left to shift for herself she declined to teach domestic science because she maintained there was more rapid advancement in some form of industry work. She was willing to "do anything to get started in the right way," and her first job, which she got in answer to an advertisement, was a temporary position supervising demonstrations for a new brand of coffee. As a result of her common sense, training and practical experience her work was so satisfactory that she was recommended for her present position.

Mrs. Emmons was not willing, however, to attempt advertising the new product put out by the firm until she knew it thoroughly, and so the company fitted up a kitchen on the sixteenth floor, a regular kitchen like one would find in any home, and she tested her product in her "kitchen office" in every conceivable manner under home conditions.

It was in this little kitchen that Mrs. Emmons made her first purple cake. That was after she had taken over her work with the dye company. In speaking of this work, Mrs. Emmons stated:

"The food colorings made by the National Aniline Company have no flavor whatsoever and have no food value. They merely make some things look prettier and are used mainly to aid in carrying out color schemes at parties and the like. They are doubly certified, not only by the company, but every batch, before any of it is sold, is certified by the food inspection division of the department of agriculture."

"Before the war we had no self-supporting dye industry. The dye companies that were in existence were obliged to get their intermediates and many of the raw materials from foreign countries."

"When the time came that we could not get the foreign dyes, many of our manufacturers began to worry for fear we would see a colorless world."

"Then the struggle began to furnish needed colors and other products of the dye industry necessary for the protection of this country. It is a well known fact that dye plants can be turned almost overnight into plants for the manufacture of high explosives and poison gases. This accounts in a large measure for the unexpected advance of Germany during the first years of the war."

"Almost all the cloth used for our army and navy was dyed with American dyes. Today the industry is producing sufficient colors to make it unnecessary to import dyes for wool and silk. There are still dyes for cotton that we are not making. All that the dye industry in the United States needs is a little time and proper protection to be able to compete with the world."

"The history of color and dye is interesting, running as it does from ancient time to the present. All that the dye industry in the United States needs is a little time and proper protection to be able to compete with the world."

"People today blame dyes many times when the fault is not with the dyes, but with the laundering, and people are more critical than they were before their war-time experience. It is a popular impression that the German dyes were guaranteed. This is wrong. No dye manufacturer will guarantee a dye because he has nothing whatsoever to do with its final disposition and cannot guarantee what the user will do with it."

After listening to Mrs. Emmons explain many phases of the dye industry I began to believe that she was right when she said that "home economics should be the basis of every girl's training," for surely no other training could have better fitted her for her work.

Mrs. Harriet Cole Emmons.

CHAMBRAY MAKES THIS FROCK FOR THREE-YEAR-OLD

By ELOISE.

Now is the time to make up those remnants of wash goods which you bought at the end of last summer. These small pieces of gingham, linen, dotted Swiss, voile and organdy are just the thing for the spring dressmaking which usually takes place in March. The smaller pieces will make charming frocks for the Miss Two or Three-Year-Olds. Pretty little frocks may be seen in the shops now which give many good ideas as to style, color and trimming. One noticeable thing is the popularity of lavender for children's frocks.

Here is a pretty little frock which will please the little miss should she get it for an Easter present. It is made of pale green chambray with smocking done in yellow and black threads. Little gathered pockets form an attractive trimming feature and a little white linen collar with a green, black and yellow stitched border and cuffs to match add the finishing touches to the dress. It may open all the way down the front, if desired, and will then be very easy to launder.

DROP FREE THROW ADVISE SOME TEAMS

Abolish the free throw is one of the suggestions being advanced for the rules book next season. Those who want the change argue that the present rules of a free trial for foul after fouls gives a team with a skillful shooter too much of an advantage.

It has been suggested that when a team makes a foul the opposing team be awarded a half point or a point, and that the free foul be eliminated. There has also been much opposition to a change, the claim being put forth that all basketball fires should see to it that a skillful free goal shooter is developed.

President Bill Langdon of the association is appointing committees for this purpose. In a couple of days, the membership tickets will be circulated and campaigners at work pushing the project. The tickets are now in the hands of the printers.

ECKSTEIN IN FRAUD CASE, SUED HERE

It was declared necessary to offer the bonds on the open market because of the time it would take to dispose of them in and around this city.

Eckstein Takes Bonds.

Accordingly, Cullen made arrangements with the R. A. Eckstein company, located in Milwaukee, whereby the entire amount, except what had been sold here, amounting to about $12,000. Payment on the bonds taken over by Eckstein was to have been made in installments at regular intervals. One of the conditions of the purchase was that the Eckstein company was named as trustee.

The contract called for the signing of the bonds by Mr. and Mrs. Cullen, then to be certified by Eckstein and returned to a Janesville bank. It was then agreed that as fast as Eckstein sold the bonds, they were to be sent from Janesville to the Milwaukee company.

Kept Bonds and Money.

As Eckstein was trustee of the bonds they were sent to him for the purpose of certification only. It was understood, according to the complaint, that they were all to be returned to a Janesville bank to be held "in escrow" until payments were made for them.

The complaint charges that Eckstein kept the bonds and through "a secret and fraudulent plan" diverted the money and bonds to his own uses. There is a contention that Eckstein used them as security while attempting to put over his government ring scheme which the government interrupted. Eckstein is alleged to have converted about $23,000 of the bonds without the knowledge or consent of Janesville people.

Most Local Buyers Safe.

R. A. Eckstein through his company sold legally and made payments on $14,000 worth of the bonds. When Eckstein was arrested a total of about $23,000 in bonds was recovered. A large per cent of the bonds sold were purchased by Janesville people before the Milwaukee bond specialists made the contract which he is alleged to have violated. People who bought bonds at an early date are thoroughly secured and it is not likely that those local buyers further than requiring them to come into court and showing when and how they purchased them.

Many Technicalities.

Mr. Cullen and wife, through Milwaukee attorneys, have filed a separate answer which denies the validity of all the bonds. This is declared to be for the purpose of enabling Mr. Cullen, as a defendant in the case, to be in a position to contest the validity of any of the bonds thought to have illegally issued, and to protect owners of those sold legitimately transferred.

There are many technical and legal questions involved in the procedure. The main factor is to have the court determine the legal bonds, which Eckstein sold, without authority when he failed to return bonds sent to him only for certification.

The plaintiffs in the case are Elizabeth C. Joiner, Estelle McDaniels, Ella May McDaniels, Don J. McDaniels, L. L. Mills, Fred B. Howe, Anna B. Butler, Horace Cunningham and the Bank of Southern Wisconsin.

Score of Defendants.

The defendants named in the litigation papers are James H. Cullen and wife, R. A. Eckstein and bond holders, W. R. Borman, Alfred J. Schoof, Frank Ayers, Jeanette Ayers, Della M. Pollock, Edgar E. Broege, R. E. Wilcox, Louis A. Henke, Cora E. Wilcox, Clarence P. Anderson, Edward F. Seaman, Ida M. Morse, Henry Kau, Emil Broege, C. Puetzer, P. J. Synett, of Janesville, and Jacob Karth, George Hecker, Agnes Hecker, Mary Tachereau, Michael Levin, Milton Heldman, H. Neider, Peter Saueroff, M. Seligman, Agnes Samon, Jr. alias Agnes Seonik and J. Timmer, of Milwaukee.

The petition to the court calls for the appointment of a trustee and the validity of all the bonds to be adjudicated. The attorneys for both the defense and the plaintiff are commencing to have the court determine the legality of the bonds sold by Eckstein after he violated his contract. It is alleged.

Local Buyers Safe.

Elmer Green acted as a selling agent here for the bonds for a time. He resigned when Eckstein was subject to the clamps of the state and federal laws.

Others who figured in the sale of the bonds were C. K. Kempa, Milwaukee, I. D. Phelps, Green Bay and E. G. Ranscht, Milwaukee.

"This proceeding is nothing more than to protect the rights and interests of the valid buyer and the Janesville people who bought are secured and protected," said James H. Cullen Friday.

"We desired to find out the people who have not a legal right to hold the bonds," said Attorney Roger Cunningham today. "We are in close cooperation with the lawyers of Mr. Cullen and want the matter adjusted as soon as possible. The local buyers have no cause to worry."

SITE SECURED FOR WILLARD SCHOOL

Mrs. Whitney Fisher Donates Lot on State St. Part of Old Willard Farm.

Announcement of the gift of a lot for the Frances Willard school house, was made at a county board meeting of the W. C. T. U., Thursday, at the Presbyterian church. The lot is located on State street, just beyond the old Forest Home of Frances Willard and adjacent to it, and the gift was tendered by Mrs. Whitney Fisher, whose sons are now the owners of the old Willard farm.

Acceptance of the gift was formally made Friday, and plans were made for the removal of the old school house to the new location.

The purchase of the old school by the W. C. T. U. county board was sanctioned last September, and was accomplished in the early winter, through funds raised by the W. C. T. U. The purchase price did not include the grounds, so the organization had various plans under consideration for a site. The gift of a lot is a welcome solution of the problem, as it is on the main road, much nearer to town, close by a dwelling which will be a protection from marauders, and on the old farm much beloved by Miss Willard.

To Build Foundation.

The plans made by the W. C. T. U. include besides the removal of the school house to its new location, a cement foundation and basement.

der the building, and its thorough renovation so as to put it in repair and protect it from the weather. The expenses will be undertaken by the county unions aided by donations.

It is intended to make the school house a memorial to Miss Willard and a place where the many memories of her life in Janesville may be housed. Especially will it be used for the celebration of her birthday, Sept. 28, which is a national holiday for the W. C. T. U. all over the world.

The local committee in charge of the removal and repairs includes: Mrs. O. W. Ashton, Mrs. O. D. Bates, Mrs. Amelia Louden, Mrs. H. B. Ellis, Mrs. Abbie Holmes, and Mrs. A. E. West, Milton Junction, and Mrs. Martha Boyd, Lima. They will immediately estimate what is needed and call for bids.

All Towns Represented.

The members of the county board who were present Thursday included besides the members of the committee just named: the president, Mrs. Lacy Dickinson, Edgerton; vice-president, Mrs. Cora Dickinson, Janesville; secretary, Mrs. Carrie Dresser, Clinton; Mrs. Sarah Greenwood, Edgerton; Mrs. Carrie Fitz and Mrs. Anna Dickie, Beloit; Mrs. Estella Gabriel and Mrs. John Baker, Evansville; and Miss Caroline Palmer, Janesville.

A picnic lunch was served at noon. Plans were made for a county convention in Milton early in September, and a picnic at the county farm in June.

Ladies Aid of M. E. Church will hold their Easter Sale of Fancy Articles, at the Church Saturday afternoon followed by supper served from 5:30 to 8:00 P. M. 50c a plate.

COURT CASE SETTLED BY MERE FLIP OF COIN

Milwaukee—A flip of a coin in Circuit Judge Oscar Fritz's court recently gave plaintiffs $3,125, excusing jurors drawn for the cases.

Attorney C. F. Rouiller represented three women in actions against the electric company. One asked $2,500 for injuries; the second asked $2,000; third, $2,000. Attorney Carl Muskart for the electric company was endeavoring to effect a settlement before the trial started. He offered $1,175. Attorney Rouiller asked $1,200. The jury waited. Then Court Reporter Cowan suggested he flip a coin. The attorneys agreed. Rouiller taking heads and Muskart tails. Heads won. A settlement in all three cases was reached—$1,200 in the first, $1,475 in the second, and $750 in the third.

"BEAUTIFUL ANNABELLE LEE"

A touching song, rendered with deep emotional power. Annabelle "lived by the sea" until the angels came and took her away. "Asleep in the Deep" is introduced as an interlude.

"LOUISIANA"
Sterling Trio

Beautifully harmonized for the Sterling Trio, which sings it with touching effect. The upper tenor part is especially fine.
